The Abilene Paradox, is a fast-paced workshop that will help managers, supervisors, and staff find positive ways to come to effective agreements between individuals and groups, and avoid the trap of moving in directions that are counter-productive to the group's overall purpose.

Workshop Goals:

1. To recognize the paradox of mismanaged agreement, and understand how it contributes to poor group decisions.
2. To explore the personal and psychological dynamics that affect each person's involvement in group discussions and agreement
3. To initiate measures to help groups avoid making counter-productive decisions.
